Living and studying in Paris has given me such a great insight into Parisian culture and education

« Living and studying in Paris for a semester has given me such a great insight into Parisian culture and education, in a way you could never experience as a tourist. The other international students and I were welcomed by French students keen to involve us and practice their English! As all of the students were about to study on semesters abroad themselves they were even more interested in other cultures and our experiences studying abroad. Some of the courses at ESSCA were new topics and others revisited things I had already studied, which made for a fascinating comparison. The more flexible timetable we international students had meant that I had more spare time to explore Paris and some of the amazing things there are to offer, and as such I feel after just 4 months I really know the city and had done a huge amount with my time. »

ESSCA has recently been awarded the Campus France "Bienvenue en France" certification for the quality of the international student experience.
